

COLONIAL—Beginning Sunday evening Rose Melville will play "Sis Hopkins" at the Colonial for four nights and Wednesday matinee. There is little to add to that announcement. The present generation of playgoers should be fairly familiar with Miss Melville's "Sis" and to say her performance is invariably good is but repeating the comment of more seasons than it would be chivalrous to enumerate. Beginning Thursday evening, November 16th, the Colonial will offer "The House Next Door," one of the newest plays to be sent out of the east.

ORPHEUM—A glance through the Orpheum's bookings for the ensuing week finds little indication of a featured headliner. Colin, Steele and Carr "Fresh from College" in bits of musical comedy are given first place on the program, followed by six American dancers and the Seven Belfords, the latter American athletes. Wilbur and Terry say their act is new, novel and nifty, and Dave Ferguson is announced as a storiette comedian. Cummings and Gladeen are on the bill as a couple of fun makers and with one other act and the pictures finish the program.

GARRICK—The late Kyrle Bellew's famous old play "Raffles" will be the Garrick's attraction beginning Sunday evening. In it Mr. Parker will have a very fine opportunity to present a character that Mr. Bellew did so much to make famous. "Raffles" needs no introduction to Salt Lake. It has been played here many times and has gained rather than lost in popularity with each production. It is one of the best plays of its kind still being produced and the Garrick has promised a thorough and careful staging. Matinees will be given on Thursday and Saturday.

EMPRESS—For their third week, beginning Wednesday afternoon, November 15th, the Empress has announced a bill headed by Patty brothers, one of whom has gained a great deal of notoriety the past few seasons by walking on his head up and down stairs. The act is a headliner for any vaudeville bill and should prove a big attraction at the Empress. Mrs. Jules Levy and family in a musical act; Miller and Mack, two dancing boys, and the first appearance in America of Ida Barr, a British comedienne; Herbert Hodge, photoplay, and John R. Gordon & Co. in a farce act entitled, "What Would You Do," finish up the bill.

Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia has a kindly wit which some persons have misconstrued as caustic. At a dinner party a lady whom he had been chaffing thought she saw her opportunity and his dessert. "A fig for you, your grace," she remarked pointedly, passing him a plate of figs in their leaves. Her waist was cut very low in the neck. The archbishop only smiled politely, and taking a leaf from the plate said: "A fig-leaf for you, Mrs. X."

Mrs. Gramercy—Why did she ask for so much alimony?

Mrs. Park—So he wouldn't be able to support the co-respondent.—Town Topics.
